Trojan Battery Adds REMS Batteries To Network of Distributors For France

SANTA FE SPRINGS, Calif., April, 17, 2013 - Trojan Battery Company, the world's leading manufacturer of deep-cycle batteries, today announced a distribution agreement with REMS Batterie Industrielle Services expanding Trojan's presence in France. As a Trojan authorized master distributor, REMS joins Accus Plus to distribute and service Trojan deep-cycle batteries in the region.

"The addition of REMS to Trojan's extensive network of worldwide distributors strengthens our commitment of providing high-quality products and services around the world," said Mat Segal, senior vice president of global business development. "Trojan's strategic alliance with REMS enhances Trojan's extensive worldwide network of distinguished distributors that provide the localized, dedicated sales and technical support services that customers have come to expect from Trojan."

The knowledgeable team of engineers at both REMS and Accus Plus receive ongoing comprehensive training from Trojan's technical support professionals. This training enhances each company's expertise in advising clients on the selection of Trojan batteries for a variety of applications such as golf cars, floor scrubbers, electric passenger transport vehicles, and renewable energy systems.

"The combination of Trojan Battery's knowledge in deep-cycle battery technology, along with REMS' technology and local market expertise, will effectively support customers throughout France," said Leon Laval, chief executive officer and founder at REMS Batterie Industrielle Services. "REMS' partnership with Trojan ensures our customer achieve the best results from their electric equipment applications."
